NEW PROGRAMS FOR GOLFERS ON TAP AT THE GRAND GOLF CLUB AT THE GRAND DEL MAR

Instruction Designed to Give Golfers a Competitive Edge

WHAT: From playing precise pitches to bettering your backswing, golf is a game of mental and physical prowess.

Aimed at helping golfers make a more powerful impact on the course, The Grand Golf Club's new instructional arm – The Grand Golf Performance Academy – will unveil a series of one-, two- and three-day comprehensive golf programs designed to help golfers finesse all aspects of their game, including long and short irons, pitching/sand shots, trouble shots, chipping, putting and much more. Armed with decades of experience and a slew of awards and accolades, the golfing pros at The Grand offer top-notch instruction, as well as access to state-of-the-art swing analysis and other cutting-edge technology.

WHEN: Three-day Comprehensive Golf Program: April 30-May 2; June 11-13; July 23-25; Aug. 27-29; Oct. 22-24, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Program highlights include: on-course instruction, computerized video analysis, mental strategy/evaluation, Titleist Performance Institute Physical Screening and daily lunch. ($2,395/person)

Two-day Short Game Program: May 22-23; Aug. 7-8; 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Program highlights include: SAM Puttlab technology, green reading and strategy, chipping, pitching, bunker and lob shots, as well as short game practice techniques. ($1,595/person)

One-day Putting Program: Aug. 1, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Program highlights include mastering the art of putting through a comprehensive look at saving strokes on the greens – from understanding individual strokes to green reading and practice drills. ($695/person)

WHY: Classes are designed to help golfers with all aspects of the game – providing both a mental and physical edge – with a focus on full swing, short game and putting evaluation.
